

The main benefits concerning protective holder

- A. Substantial reduction in warranty repairs from clients, which lead to lower repair and shipping costs.
- B. Reduced administrative expenses
- C. The client will have a far better experience in using phone products, thus leading to a more positive reputation for the phone producer and it's products.
- D. A value for money proposition for the client in the extended life of their handsets.

It is a well documented fact that employees have less respect for property that they have not had to purchase directly, thus leading to more abuse to handsets than say their own personal cell phone.
